Welcome Spring!

Hello, lovely community,

Spring is finally here — blossoms, sunshine,
and that fresh sense of new beginnings.
Just like the season, I've got some beautiful things blooming behind the scenes,
And I'd love to share a little with you this month.

Facts About Me

10 Facts so you can get to know the face behind the camera a little better:

1. I started my photography journey back in 2009.
2. My daughters are my biggest inspiration — they're the reason I love capturing family connections.
3. I love vintage fashion and sometimes sew my own dresses for shoots.
4. I'm a milo & milk girl!
5. I am currently publishing a children's book series.
6. Sitting on the deck in the sun with my nan is my happy place.
7. My favourite editing style is soft, pastel tones, but I also like earthy neutrals.
8. I'm not a morning person!
9. I am 18 months away from becoming a high school teacher.
10. I truly believe photographs are time capsules that hold love, laughter, and legacy.

🌸 My Favourite Things Right Now 🌸

Here are a few little joys I've been loving this spring:

- Favourite flower: Cherry blossoms in full bloom.
- Favourite local spot: Bundanoon Hotel.
- Favourite creative tool:

My 50mm lens for capturing dreamy family portraits.

- Favourite read: Here one moment by Liane Moriarty.

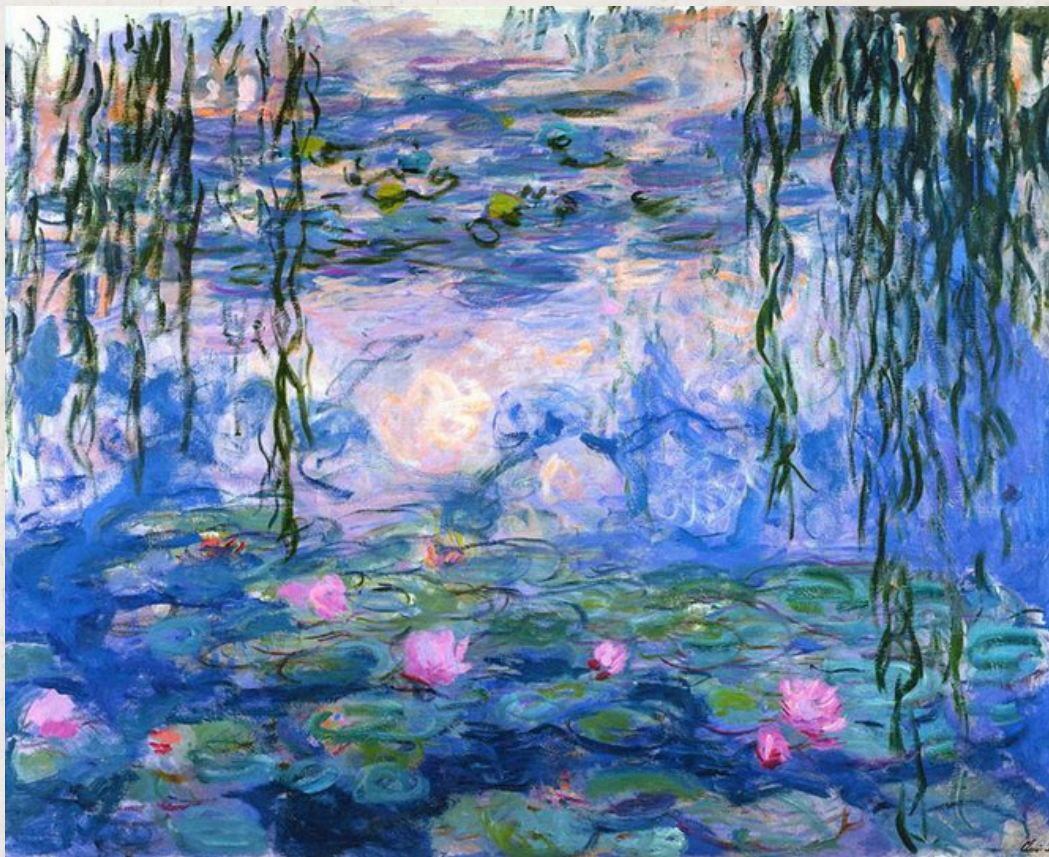

Favourite quote: "I must have flowers, always, and always." — Claude Monet

Artist Spotlight: Claude Monet

Since spring is all about flowers and light, I couldn't think of anyone better to highlight than Claude Monet, the French Impressionist painter.

- Who he was: Born in 1840 in Paris, Monet is considered the father of Impressionism — the movement named after his famous painting Impression, Sunrise (1872).
- Style & vision: Monet loved painting en plein air (outdoors), capturing the way light shifted across landscapes, gardens, and water. He worked with quick, visible brushstrokes and a pastel-inspired colour palette, much like how photographers chase golden hour light.
- Famous works: His most iconic series include the Water Lilies (painted in his own gardens at Giverny), Haystacks, and Rouen Cathedral. Each series demonstrates how one subject transforms in response to the time of day, season, and light.
- Fun fact: Monet was obsessed with his garden at Giverny, which he designed and tended himself. He once said, "My garden is my most beautiful masterpiece."
- Creative takeaway: Just as photography freezes a fleeting moment, Monet's paintings remind us that beauty is always changing. He teaches us to slow down, notice the everyday details, and embrace the imperfect magic of light and colour.

Creative News

Something very exciting is unfolding — I'm working with a publisher on my Lulu and Lala children's book series!

- ✨ Inspired by my daughters, the books are soft, lyrical stories that explore family, feelings, and the magic of childhood. It's been a dream project, and I look forward to sharing more soon.

A Thoughtful Gift Idea

I'm not running Christmas mini-sessions this year, but I do have something special for families who want a meaningful keepsake. You can now purchase a Gift Voucher for the Christmas Family Package — perfect to tuck under the tree or treat yourself to later.
